Community Update: It is All in The Swing
February 15, 2012

I have had many opportunities to point out how something I learned earlier in my life (meaning pre-Haiti) is greatly useful in my missionary life. A couple of examples: I was the only Moynihan out of eight to attend private school. Understanding a boarding school from the inside out helps me a lot with running LCS. I owned a diesel vehicle before coming to Haiti and learned how important it is to change the timing belt on time. Today, I am glad that I played rugby at Brown! "Swinging the ball out the line" is the same motion as grabbing the cement bucket and sending it up the line. Thanks, Jay Fluck (my rugby coach) for preparing me well for Haiti.

Today, we completed the second of six wall sections. We are on target for re-opening the J.J. Dessalines building. It is an amazing feat each time we complete a major pour. It is spiritual and practical. It feeds the body and the mind. It strengthens the community.

Thanks to THP Board Member Scott Hill, Kurt Davis court, Mike Smith, THP Board Chair Patrick Brun, and Charles Fombrun - experts, engineers and architects in the U.S. and Haiti who make sure we do it right.

We appreciate your support. We work hard to make the best of it. Please help us meet our first quarter goal of $400,000. We are currently at $68,000.

Peace, Patrick
